PROGRESSIVE FUTURE ASSURED.

(BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

The coal trade during the week has been exceptionally brisk, and the collieries of the South Coast have been working at a high rate of production.

The pay drawn by a large number of collieries was unusually animated on Saturday, and the demand for coal

COMMITTED TO SOCIALISM

LABOUR MAY WRECK LIBERALISM

MINERS WOULD ALLOOF.

LONDON, Jan. 25.

The resolution of the party to socialism has been the subject of much discussion in the House of Commons.

The "Spectator" writes that the Labour party is committed to full-blooded socialism, and has fallen under the influence of extremists like Mr. V. Grayson, M.P.

It is impossible to imagine the party devoting, except in accordance with the socialist statement of its objects.

The "Daily Chronicle" writes that organized Labour will possibly wreck the present Liberal party, and the only practical result will be to leave the Tories in possession of the country.

LIBERAL POLICY.

NATIONAL EDUCATION BILL.

INITIATING OLD-AGE PENSIONS.

COMMUNITY AGAINST THE CLASSES.

LONDON, Jan. 25.

Mr. H. H. Asquith, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking at Norwich said that the generous and indulgent facilities for denationalisation instruction granted by the Government in its first Education Bill would not be repeated. The Government's policy now was to put the nation first.

The sections came afterwards.

Regarding old-age pensions, Mr. Asquith did not think that any satisfactory scheme could be based on a contributory system, but he did not favour the granting of pensions at a certain age regardless of the need of other conditions. He urged that the most that could be done was to make a beginning, unattended by the humiliations attending on relief under the poor law.

The Liberal Administration desired to injure any class Mr. Asquith desired the Government to be regarded as the assured of other conditions. He urged that

attending on relief under the poor law.

CHARGE OF PERJURY.

DRUCE DIARIST ACCUSED.

A COMMONPLACE HISTORY.

LONDON, Jan. 25.

Mary Robinson, the witness who produced the diary in the Druce case, again appeared at the Bow-street Police Court yesterday, before Sir A. de Rutzen, on a charge of perjury.

Sir Charles Mathews, who prosecuted on behalf of the Treasury, stated that Robinson's husband worked as a shopkeeper at Workop in 1870, and both said for New Zealand in 1874. They resided at Waimate in 1875.

Robinson was the mother of several children, including Maud, born in 1881, who was the Maud O'Neill who was appeared as a witness in the Druce case before Mr. Plowden, and who never stated her relationship with Robinson or her real name.

After her husband's death in 1884 Robinson came to London, and in 1885 she came to New Brighton and Palmerston North, where she lived until 1904. She had

VICTORIANS SCORE 408.

ARMSTRONG MAKES A CENTURY.

GOOD BATTING BY NOBLE AND GREGORY.

NEW SOUTH WALES THREE FOR 224.

LONDON, Jan. 25.

There were several counter attractions on Saturday, but, nevertheless, 4,000 people watched the match between New South Wales and Victoria, which was continued on the Sydney Cricket Ground, the takings amounting to £110.

On the previous night Victoria had lost four wickets for 332, and everyone expected the team to put up a record score. But as frequently the case the unexpected happened, and the match between the two teams was very poor, but on the game being resumed Noble and Kellaway, who were the opening bowlers, at once found their length, and the batsmen to their credit. Shortly after luncheon was over the match recommenced and the batsmen were brilliantly caught out by Hopkins in the slips after he had added over 100 to his score. This was the only run he made, but the rest of the Victoria team were very good, and the innings terminated by the dismissal of the batsmen.

The last wicket fell to the Victoria team, who were dismissed for 224, and played only 60 runs and three-quarter hours without a chance.

New South Wales commenced its innings after the luncheon, and the batsmen were very good, and the innings terminated by the dismissal of the batsmen.
